I agree with the link idea. We would give them the bepwc.msi file that Dirk created. I put it in the G:\Teams and Panels\Special Teams\ESA Pilots\BE_Meth_Carb\DRAFT BEs_Final Ready for Posting\Provisional Tools directory

We have the read me file ("PWC_Versions.txt") from the folder we were using Friday. Is this adequate? As far as a link, we just ask the web team to make a link and provide them the file to post. We would just use the .msi file that Dirk provided, right? That also in the folder below.

Hi all –

The WoE tools have been revised for methomyl and carbaryl and zipped up. I am asking Amy to test downloading them today – after that they should be good to go. I have also revised Attachment 4-1 and the WoE tools section of the Models page.

Phil – did we get Dirk's edits to the current master version of the Models page? (the last one Anita sent back). If you send to me when done, I can drop my section in and get it back to Christina in final form.

Thanks!

Colleen

Thanks Colleen. I obviously don't want to create additional work where unnecessary; however, as you know, we've received a lot of complaints/ concerns from CRE regarding lack of transparency and review of our provisional models. That coupled w the webpage being front and center for the public have me a little concerned w not posting the updated version.

Phil - what's the status on the proposed posting date for the drafts? I hadn't heard we are delaying the release date. Also, interested in hearing your thoughts on how to best resolve the issue. Thanks.

See attached comments. I'm ok w no changes to version numbers as long as upgrades/revisions (and dates) are documented in the "Read Me" pages. I do have concerns w/not posting the newer version of the Magtool for carbaryl and methomyl - how hard would it be to post the updated version?

Please let me know your comments/edits/responses as soon as possible so we can send all of these updates to the web team.

Hi Chuck and Christina –

I made edits to the version Anita sent back and added my section. Chuck, can you add your stuff then send back to Christina in track changes/with comments addressed? She will circulate back to Anita and Phil (Christina, please cc: Chuck and I as well in case they have questions). Does Phil still need to provide input on the PWC issue?

Christina – did you use the latest version of the SSD toolbox (dated August 29, 2016)? Does it have a version number on it? I don't have that version on my computer so I couldn't address that question.

Thanks!

Colleen
